360° marketing

The path to effective marketing

What are your goals?

Have you considered what you want to achieve with your advertisement and marketing? Is it to increase sales or generate more leads? Is it to create more visibility online and expand the awareness of your company? One of the first steps in your considerations concerning advertisement and marketing is to make concrete objectives for what you want to accomplish to optimize your time and budget.

Do you have targeted messages?

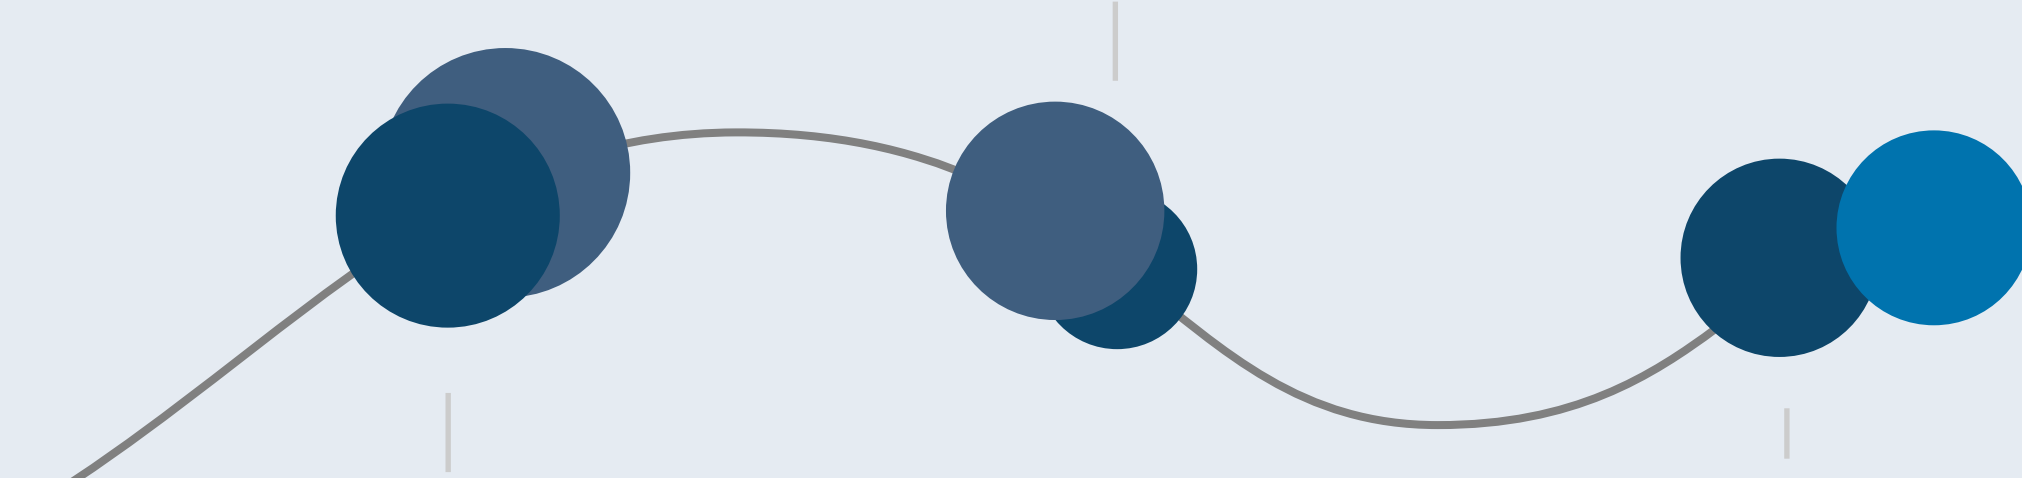

What do you uniquely offer that no one else can do? Is it obvious to your target group what products and services you provide? Do you have targeted messaging and the right combination of messages sent out at the right time using the correct formats? All these considerations are crucial to capture the attention of your target audience across different channels.

Do you know your target group?

How well do you know your target group? Who is it that you need to advertise and market your products? Because to get the best out of your marketing activities and advertisement, it is important to know your target group. Thus, you can choose the correct selection of media, channels, and messages to target them.

Are you on the correct channels and formats?

Have you wondered what channels and formats are most effective for your company? What channels is your target group located? Does it make sense to advertise online, in print, at events, or using a tailor-made marketing mix? Capture your customers where they are, when they are. We cover many different industries and can provide you direct access to companies and audience that you wish to market towards.

What is your budget?

Have you considered how much you want to invest in advertisement and marketing? How big of a return do you envision gaining? And when do you expect your investments to pay off in traffic, sales, and earnings? A plan and concrete budget matching your targets is crucial to getting as much as possible from your activities and expectations.

Receive sparring and guidance

Our media consultants are experts in guiding companies in everything from target groups and marketing budgets to channels and media. We are specialized in aiding companies across industries and are always ready to advise you on the correct composition of advertisement and marketing products that are most efficient.

Contact us for an informal consultation. Call us on 72 28 69 70.

We are where the customer is

Gain visibility within your target group using Nordiske Medier.

You must be visible with your target group on the right channels, media, and time of day to gain success with your advertising activities. When potential customers want to invest in the product or service you offer, they should know and remember exactly your company. Customers will do this if you as a company are visible and present where they operate.

As a central meeting place for the Nordic business world, we at Nordiske Medier offer several opportunities to create visibility. When you are advertising across our many online and print media, you can increase the frequency of your message and secure that potential customers are aware of your company and that existing customers will not lose knowledge about your business.

With our broad assortment of channels, formats, and media, you have the opportunity to spread your message out, so they not only occur with a high frequency but also hit the right target group at the right time.

Print advertisement

Target your marketing and be seen in the right context with print ads

With more than 450.000 professional readers, Nordiske Medier's readership is the largest of any other professional media. With our broad range of industry-oriented media, advertisers have the opportunity to target their ads directly towards professions in selected industries.

A print ad in one of our newspapers, therefore, reaches a large audience with a direct interest in your product and services. Not only will your ads be seen by the many, but also by the right people.

We ensure that the ad placement in our newspapers correlates with the editorial content and themes to ensure our readers read your ads.

We include print ads in the digital version of the newspaper, exposing readers on computers and tablets to your advertisement. Our large supply of ad formats enables you to choose the exact format best fitting your needs.

We have many creative ad formats, which help increase the opportunity to create interest and awareness, and we work continuously to optimize the exposure so you reach your target group more precisely than any other media offer.

Contact us by phone at 72 28 69 70 and learn more about your possibilities with advertising with our print media.

Ad testing

We take your advertisement all the way

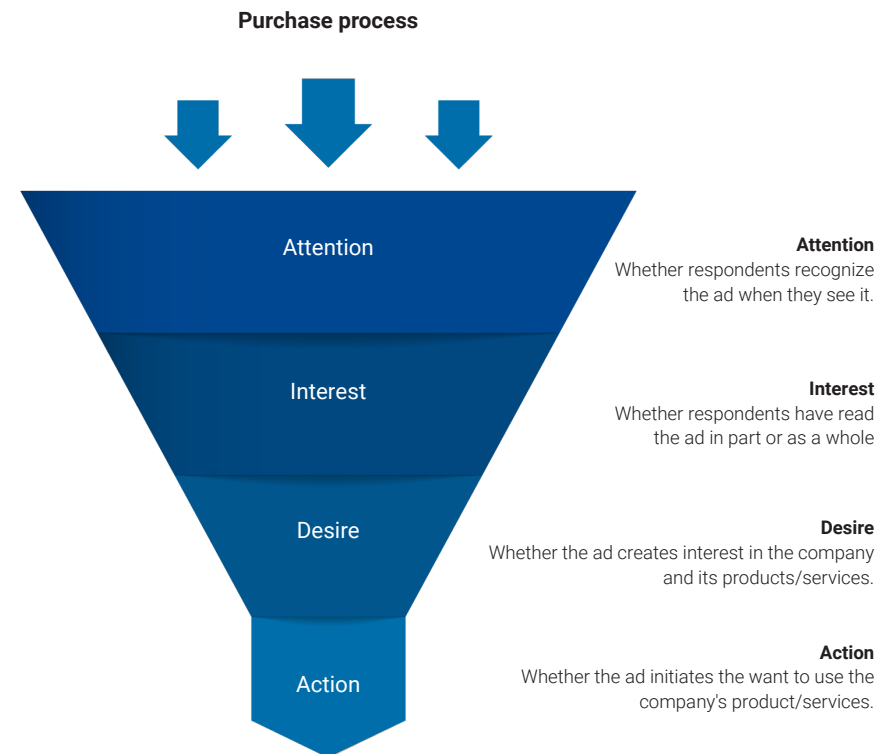

We offer an ad test where we investigate the effect of your published ads in our printed newspapers. We do this to test your ads' ability to create interest and convey the intended message.

We base the ads test on a combination of qualitative and quantitative replies to ensure that the investigation reaches high validity and security. We gather replies by telephone interviews or an online reader survey. With this, the readers can provide their subjective evaluation of the ad in question.

We use the AIDA model as a framework for evaluation which investigates whether different parameters are fulfilled in the ad.

Based on the replies we create an overall impression and share our insights and knowledge with you, enabling you to improve your ads and increase sales.

Contact us and learn more about our ad testing by phone at 72 28 69 70.

Advertorial

We bring your company in the newspaper

Capture customers and new business partners when promoting your company in a story with a journalistic expression.

An advertorial is a commercial designed as an article. We offer the unique opportunity to create an ad through journalistic storytelling to promote your products and core competencies.

With an advertorial, we offer:

- Strategic placement among other articles.
- An article with a high SEO value which increases knowledge about your company.
- Effective marketing created in collaboration with commercial copywriters.

*Advertorial can be prepared across all our media and it is possible to support with video or link to a video. Our online advertorials have a max. length of 2.000 keystrokes (incl. space).

Learn more about the opportunities to brand your company and promote your products with an advertorial by phone at 72 28 69 70 or by email at salg@nordiskemedier.dk

*If prepared material is to be delivered, the deadline is two weeks before publishing.

Insert

Make sure your message does not get lost in the commercial pile

Get your insert or printed brochures distributed in our newspapers and get your company noticed in the industry.

An insert is a brochure that we place in our newspapers before distribution. When our readers open their newspapers they are thereby met with your insert.

This will increase the awareness of your company and provide you with direct access to your target group. An insert ensures that your brochures are not lost among other commercial brochures with an attractive placement in our newspapers read by professionals with interest in your products and services. You have the opportunity to emphasize your message on several pages and increase your visibility among decision-makers in small and medium companies.

Learn more about your opportunities in the distribution of your brochure materials along our newspapers at 72 28 69 70 or salg@nordiskemedier.dk

Crawling

Save time and resources

What?

Crawling is a function set up by our digital development department to get your sales ads on your website or membership profile. Your sales ads are continuously updated in your membership profile since the function is automated. You can also use crawling for products, machines, jobs, and courses.

How?

We create a piece of software that automatically goes through your ads on all websites. Your ad is then automatically created on the membership portal. You are thereby only creating your ads one place at one time.

Advantages

- ✓ Saving time and resources
- ✓ Easy administration of all ads.
- ✓ Promotion of your products, machines, jobs, and courses on the membership portal where professionals with an interest in your offers are regularly kept updated.

Projektagenten

The road to your next project

Streamline your work process with Projektagenten: Denmark's largest platform for monitoring construction projects.

Projektagenten makes it easy for you to find new business opportunities and follow along with the phases of construction. You get a complete overview with intuitive search functions, tailored notifications, and relevant information - collected in one tool.

Projektagenten originates from Licitationen - Byggeriets Dagblad, part of the Nordic Media Group. For 114 years, Licitatation has kept companies up to date on everything in construction and architecture through sharp news. The core of Licitationen's work has always been to act as a contact intermediary between construction parties and ensure that our readers are at the forefront of the latest tenders and projects.

We have let our expertise and experience in the industry form the breeding ground for your new digital monitoring tool: Projektagenten

Events and Fairs

Strengthen your brand and expand your network

Nordiske Medier uniquely offers to support your marketing activities when you want to make yourself known and spread your message at trade fairs. We produce fair newspapers and can promote your company through advertising.

In addition to supporting your presence at trade fairs, Nordiske Medier also holds regular events. In collaboration with the companies in the industries, we focus here on the industries' current challenges and opportunities through events and other activities.

As a partner, sponsor, or participant at Nordiske Medier's events, you get close to the industry's most important and biggest players. This allows you to increase your visibility in the industry and create a network among decision-makers and new business partners.

Hear more about our events and how we can support your marketing activities at fairs at 72 28 69 70.
